Motivational Interviewing Training

A primer to support change

Noel Quinn, PhD is a Clinical Psychologist with advanced competencies in Health Psychology and Behavioral Medicine. She is a member of the Motivational Interviewing Network of Trainers (MINT) and serves as the Behavioral Health Coordinator at a large VA Medical Center dedicated to delivering trauma informed care.

Motivational Interviewing is a style of communication designed to strengthen one's motivation for change.

When applied in clinical settings, motivational interviewing enhances patient-centered care and facilitates the identification and expression of patient values. This session will serve as a primer to motivational interviewing for beginners, and offer experiential exercises for advanced practitioners to sharpen their existing skills. Examples of clinical content used for this session will include substance use disorders and other chronic illnesses found within integrated medical settings.
